

PIGEON RIVER™

TENNESSEE SOUR MASH WHISKEY

Tennessee Tradition

Our Tennessee Whiskey is based primarily on a corn mash bill with a small touch of malted barley - mirroring a mash bill that would have been common in the early days of Tennessee Whiskey. It is twice pot stillled, then mellowed by maple charcoal filtration following the traditional "Lincoln County Process," before resting in new charred American white oak barrels. Once perfectly matured, beyond the minimum aging required for Straight Whiskey, it is non-chill filtered and bottled at 96 Proof.

IC 55
HARRISBURG COVERED BRIDGE
 400 yards south, this bridge was built over the East Fork of the Little Pigeon River in 1875 by Elbert Stephenson Early, an area resident who owned Newport Mills. The area had deteriorated and its loss was threatened until it was restored in 1972 through the joint efforts of the Great Smokies Chapter and the Spencer Clack Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Covered Bridges were common in America's early days and were often built adjacent to grist mills and distilleries. Each Whiskey released by The Covered Bridges Whiskey Company tells the story of a covered bridge as the backdrop of American whiskey history and Americana.

The Pigeon River Covered Bridge (also known as the Harrisburg Covered Bridge, McNutt's and East Fork) is the oldest standing covered bridge in Tennessee. Located in Sevierville, it was an access point for the town which was known for craftsmen like Mill Builders in the 1800s.

The bridge was built in 1875 by Elbert Stephenson Early, who owned the nearby Newport Mill, one of many mills in the area. The mills processed corn for local farmers, much of which ended up as the key ingredient for their quietly produced whiskey. This remote area in the Smoky Mountains, provided the perfect seclusion from Whiskey Tax Collectors in the 1800s and prohibition enforcers in the early 20th century.
